Jennie Remembered

By Paula Puddephatt

Jennie remembered. Of course she remembered. Everything.

Just a sound or a fragrance, a blurred image preserved in sepia, and it threatened to overwhelm her, all over again.

You don't consider how fragile a person can be, whilst appearing to be strong.

Jennie remembered. Of course she did.